Ransom Paid Castro May Be Illegal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A federal judge says the flow of ransom to Fidel Castro may be illegal, and indicates he may take steps to find out.

U.S. District Judge Emmett C. Choate made his remarks in rejecting a petitioner's contention and drugs from this country to Cuba is treason.

While Choate was discussing the legality of ransom payments, more than 100 new refugees, including some with U.S. citizenship, were reaching Miami by airlift that took 15,000 pounds of ransom to Havana.

Choate gave plaintiff Douglas R. Voorhees and three defendants 10 days to submit briefs on whether Choate has jurisdiction to rule on Voorhees' petition to halt continuing deliveries of $53 million in goods as payment for 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners Castro freed last December.

Voorhees, who has tried physically several times to block the ransom deal, also contends that individuals engaged in it violate the Logan Act that forbids private citizens to negotiate with foreign governments.

Choate said the deal would be a clear violation of the act if conducted by individuals. But, he said, "There's no question the government's in it."

Choate, a 72-year-old Republican, made one ruling in Friday's hearing. He rejected Voorhees' contention that treason was involved in the ransom issue.

Friday's first Pan-Am plane to Cuba unloaded vital commodities and brought back 113 passengers—all that could be crammed aboard the DC6B. Another smaller plane flew to Havana and brought back 27 more who had clearance to leave Communist Cuba.

The new arrivals told of seeing Russians everywhere in Cuba, and also many Chinese Communists.

Alberto Ferrer, 31, speculated a brisk military building program was under way in Cuba. Ferrer said there was much activity at an eastern Cuban cement factory which employed him.

Wants Envoy to Delay Decisions

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Ocean-hopping diplomats should delay any big league decision making until their "Physiological clocks" get adjusted to the new time zone, a space scientist suggests.

Rushing into an international conference after passing through five or more time zones could make for goofs because the body's normal day-night cycle is temporarily out of line, said Dr. Hubert Strughold, chief scientist of the Aerospace Medical Division at Brooks Air Force Base here.

Strughold told a symposium on space medicine at Brooks Thursday:

"Day-night cycle (discordance) may have some significance in international conferences during the first few days of the meetings. The morning hours during the first few days after long distance eastbound flights and the late afternoon hours after westbound flights are not the proper times for important negotiations or vital decisions.

"It has been observed that actors, chess players, athletes and last but not least, race horses were not at their intellectual or physical best the first few days after arriving from a region four or more time zones away."

Even in outer space, where day and night on earth pop in and out repeatedly to an astronaut, the body still temporarily clings to a 24-hour day and night cycle, Strughold said.

Weather

Total precipitation in January was 1.63; January a year ago, 5.22 inches.

Cloudy today and tonight with occasional light rain or drizzle in the southeast and light snow or snow flurries in the north today.

How They Voted on Literacy Test

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The following state representatives voted for a revised literacy test amendment to the proposed state voting registration bill today after a stronger amendment had been recalled:

Reps. Walter Day of Mississippi County, C. B. Nance Jr. and Lloyd McCuiston of Crittenden County, Arthur Deckelman of Drew County, Mack Evans of Van Buren County, Mrs. Doris McCastlain of Monroe County, Talbott Field Jr. of Hempstead County, A. G. McKennon of Logan County, Mrs. Dove Mulkey of Howard County, Jack Oakes of Woodruff County, Jerry Thomasson of Clark County, Paul Van Dalsen of Perry County, Elvan Wharton of Johnson County and Norman Wimpy of Craighead County.

Provision Shorn From Cotton Bill

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Agriculture Committee has shorn from a cotton bill a provision to give growers a choice to plant large or small acreages this year.

After voting the deletion the committee sent the measure, now facing a bleak future, back to a subcommittee headed by Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark.

Gathings said he will wait until after next week before seeing what might be done to resolve the situation—described by one committee member as a "mess."

As the bill now stands, it contains only a domestic subsidy plan. This also is under fire in some quarters.

Chairman Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., of the full committee, termed his group's action the death knell of any program to give growers the choice to decide their 1963 acreage. But he said he is hopeful of getting some bill through Congress this year.

Gathings, admittedly unhappy about the committee's action, said some legislation is necessary to enable cotton to compete with synthetics and to allow domestic textile mills to compete with foreign textiles.

He said he planned no meetings of his subcommittee next week since most Republican members will be filling Lincoln Day engagements.

After the members return, he said, "We'll see what can be done."

Committee members said the 19-16 vote to kill the choice program did not follow strict party lines although most Republicans voted against it. These members said several Democrats who voted against the choice program still are anxious to have Congress enact a bill containing a subsidy provision.

The now dead choice program would have enabled cotton growers to exceed their 1963 acreage allotments by 10 per cent and by 30 per cent in 1964. On the cotton grown on the extra acreages they would have been required, in effect to accept the lower export price. The latter is 8½ cents a pound under the domestic price.

The subsidy provision remaining in the bill directs the commodity credit corporation to make payments—in cotton—that would permit domestic mills to obtain the fiber at the export price.

Supporters of the subsidy contend that because of present cotton support prices and the export subsidy of 8½ cents a pound, domestic mills are at a serious disadvantage with foreign mills. The payment-in-kind subsidy would, in effect, enable mills to get U.S. cotton at the world price. Supporters of the proposal say that without the subsidy the domestic mills will turn to synthetics and that cotton will forever lose a big part of the domestic market.

Refuses to Give Up Weight Bills

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Senate today refused to day to allow Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton to remove the Senate truck weight bills from the Senate Roads and Highways Committee for amendment.

Harvey had two amendments, one of which would reduce the proposed maximum gross weight allowable from 73,280 pounds to 66,000 pounds. The other would reduce the proposed maximum length of truck-trailer rigs from 55 to 50 feet, except on federal interstate highways.

Sen. Morrell Gathright of Pine Bluff opposed the amendments and said Harvey could refer them to committee, where they could be considered along with the bills.

Powell Plans State Housing Project

DALLAS (AP)—A Dallas contractor said Thursday the Adam Clayton Powell Foundation was planning to build up to 10 low-cost housing projects in Arkansas.

Ralph Daniels, president of a Dallas contracting firm the Dallas Morning News reported Thursday in a copyrighted article had been hired by the foundation, said sites in 20 cities in the state would be considered.

Powell, Negro Democratic representative from New York, drew criticism Monday on the floor of the Senate from Sen. John L. Williams, R-Del., who said the Kennedy administration was lavishing taxpayers' money on the congressmen in the form of favors and loans.

The News said the Foundation planned to build homes in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. It said the district office of the Federal Housing Administration rejected plans submitted for the first two projects, both in Dallas.

Daniels said Thursday one had been rejected because the site was not suitable. He said he hadn't gotten results of the other application.

In Little Rock Gathier Johnson, director of the Federal Housing Administration in the state, said he knew nothing of the foundation's plans in Arkansas and he had no applications for such projects from the 20 cities mentioned.

Daniels said his firm had no options yet on cities. Each project would have from 150 to 300 units, he said, and the houses would rent for from $62.50 to $90 a month.

Such projects must be cleared by the FHA, which will make loans at interest rates as low as 3.125 per cent to non-profit groups. Profit groups pay 5.25 per cent, Johnson said.

Thinks GOP Man Can Unseat JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says a Republican standard-bearer can unseat President Kennedy in 1964 but that it would be a mistake for the GOP to settle on its champion now.

"The important thing is to strengthen and unite the party," said Rockefeller.

Republicans, he told a news conference Thursday, must offer constructive alternatives to administration programs and develop all the talent they have.

Rockefeller said it would be hard to say whether he would attempt to run against Kennedy in 1964, adding "I have no commitments whatsoever."

In town for a bipartisan dinner with New York's Congress members, Rockefeller said Kennedy will be ripe for defeat because of what he called the President's inability to make good on his promises.

He charged that Kennedy has failed to get the country moving and that his tax program is a hodgepodge.

Iraq's Rebels Take Over In Revolution

By WEBB MCKINLEY

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq's rebel leaders opened military recruiting centers throughout the country today and urged people to enlist to defend the day-old revolt against supporters of fallen Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.

The broadcast announcement came amid indications that the anti-Communist rebels, who captured Kassem's defense ministry headquarters after fierce fighting Friday, may not have yet extended their supremacy throughout the country.

The Iraqi borders and airports remained sealed off from the rest of the world. The Iraqi people were put under curfew and told they would be shot if they disobeyed.

Although reported slain, the fate of Kassem remained a mystery. Radio Baghdad, after claiming in the early hours of the revolt that Kassem had been destroyed, made no mention of his death or capture in later broadcasts. It was possible that he had managed to slip out of the defense ministry and escape by boat on the Tigris River.

Main threat to the new regime appeared to come from Iraq's well-organized and fanatic Communists, sometimes suppressed, and sometimes tolerated by Kassem.

The junta ordered a crackdown on the Communists.

The junta named a transitional president and cabinet but kept supreme powers for itself.

Abdel Salam Mohammed Aref, an outspoken supporter of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, will be president until the end of the transitional period, said a communique broadcast by the Baghdad radio. Aref was a co-leader of the bloody revolution that had brought Kassem to power 4½ years ago but later was imprisoned by him for a reported assassination attempt.

Col. Ahmed Hassan Bakr, was named to head the cabinet as prime minister. Bakr had been discharged from the army by Kassem for suspected participation in a revolt against him in 1959.

The six-man junta headed by Col. Abdel Kerim Mustafa took for itself the powers of commander-in-chief of the armed forces, a position that was held by Kassem and normally would have gone to the new president. The move suggested that Aref might be a figurehead.

In Cairo, President Nasser hailed the revolt as a victory for the "Arab struggle." The United Arab Republic and its Yemen satellite quickly recognized the new regime, and Nasserites obviously viewed the coup as a boost for their dream of Middle East supremacy.

The Egyptian Middle East News Agency said there was no doubt about Kassem's death. One unconfirmed report said that he died in an air raid on the defense ministry.

Unconfirmed reports said the rebels launched their coup with a three-hour bombardment of the defense ministry starting at dawn Friday. Kassem had turned the ministry into a fortress to defend himself against his pro-Nasser enemies.

Jonesboro Changes Old Bowling Law

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—The Jonesboro City Council changed an old law this week so it wouldn't be a crime for people under age 18 to go bowling.

In an ordinance adopted in 1911, the city council set a $25 fine for any minor caught in a pool hall or bowling alley.

No one knew about the provision until operators of the city's alleys asked for a reduction in their occupation tax.

When City Atty. Charles Frieron III looked up the original law on the tax, he ran across a paragraph banning youngsters. The council lowered the tax and changed the law so minors can frequent bowling alleys—but not pool halls.

Talking Over Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., who claims the Soviet Union is maintaining offensive bases in Cuba, huddles today with Director John A. McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The subject under discussion, of course, will be Cuba. Keating told a reporter Thursday night, Keating said the mid-afternoon session in his office was being held at McCone's request.

WATCH ON THE LINE—American soldiers maintain a constant vigil along the demilitarized zone between Communist North Korea and the Republic of South Korea. Situation along the border has been tense since a recent hand grenade attack by North Koreans on a U.N. command post in which one G.I. was killed and another wounded.

Becoming Medical Missionary in Korea Was No Accident for 1962 Man of the South

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Becoming a medical missionary in Korea was no accident for Dr. R. Manton Wilson, the Man of the South for 1962. He had carefully planned his course of action for a number of years, when he crossed the Pacific Ocean in the early 1950's.

Being a native of Columbus, Ark., it is understandable why he found hunting and fishing enjoyable hobbies and sought to pursue them even as far away from home as Korea. To his delight, he found the wildlife in the Korean mountains quite prolific. Hunting pheasant, deer, wild hog, and leopard was exciting.

The fishing was good, but not as much so as the hunting. The leopard is a menace to man and beast alike, so killing one is most beneficial to all. But the other three kinds of game mentioned are very good to eat. Even the wild hog, you ask? To be sure. The wild hog of the Orient is unlike those found in this country. To begin with, they are bigger, ranging in size from 600 to 700 pounds. And, despite the size, the meat is very tender. The head of one of these hogs which Dr. Wilson shot can be seen at the Wilson home in Columbus.

Married for 53 years, Dr. Manton Wilson and his wife were both missionaries from the Presbyterian Church. They were the parents of five sons and two daughters. One son became a doctor, married a doctor, and they are living in Alaska. Another doctor son lives in Durham, N.C., and is associated with Duke University.

A son who is a baby specialist lives in Greenville, S.C., and another who became a doctor is an X-ray radiologist in Seattle, Wash. While a fifth son says he is a farmer, studied forestry, and is not a doctor, he is with the health department of Richmond, Va., as medical pursuits run in the family. What about the girls? One became a laboratory technician, is married, and lives in Hampton, Va. The other is a choir director, married a choir director, and lives in New Jersey.

All the Wilson children were born in Korea except one. When Dr. and Mrs. Wilson were taking a year's leave from Korea just before World War I, they went to Germany for him to study methods of treating leprosy developed by German scientists. While there, one of the Wilsons was born. Three months later, the family was startled to be told they had five hours to get out of Berlin. Two adults and their several children managed to get themselves and their possessions out of the country just in time to prevent being trapped inside what became an enemy country. It was the beginning of WW I.

Wars took place and countries had changes of leadership, but the outstanding work of Dr. R. Manton Wilson to the lepers of Korea was recognized by one and all. He was decorated by the emperor of Japan for his work among Korean lepers, during the Japanese occupancy of the country following the Russo-Japanese War, and later by President Singman Rhee after Korea became independent.

Now, the phrase, "a man is not without honor save in his own country," has been disproved. Dr. Robert Manton Wilson, the South Pamplin, G-P president, was quoted as saying the company recognized you, and we in Hempstead County salute you.

Would Guarantee Teachers' Share

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A bill to guarantee that teachers get the major share of increased school revenues was introduced in the Arkansas House today by Reps. Raymond Mays of Cleveland County and Roscoe Brown of Craighead County.

The bill would require that any state funds in excess of $54.5 million a year be allocated either to teacher retirement or to teacher salary and that 60 per cent of any increase in local funds over the amount collected in 1962-63 go for salaries.

The bill sets a minimum of 75 per cent of all state aid funds which must go to teachers. It would permit a district to reduce its expenditure for teachers only if the number of teachers declined.

The bill is a substitute for a 1961 law, repealed earlier this session, which prohibited a district from reducing the percentage of local funds it spent for salaries.

Ga.-Pacific, Arkla Bid on Fordyce Firm

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Georgia Pacific Corp. and the Arkla Chemical Co., a subsidiary of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., are interested in buying the Fordyce Lumber Co., it was reported today.

The Fordyce Co., largest industry in Dallas County, has reportedly been up for sale since last summer.

The Arkansas Democrat reported today that reports of Georgia Pacific and Arkla Chemical being most interested in buying the plant cropped up in Fordyce and Little Rock this week.

No sales price on the company and its 150,000 acres of timber has been announced. It reportedly is valued at between $30 million and $50 million. Fordyce officials have repeatedly refused to comment officially on the situation. There was no confirmation from G-P or Arkla that they were interested.

"The Arkla Chemical Co. is interested in all wood products development in Arkansas," was all an Arkla spokesman would say. The Fordyce Co. employs about 500 persons and its total sales are about $5 million annually.

The Watzek, Gates and Crosssett families have controlled the company for 70 years and reportedly own 90 per cent of the stock. Last July they sold controlling interest in the Crosssett Co. to Georgia Pacific.

A source close to the lumber firm said "More interest has been shown in the sale in recent weeks than at any time since the first announcement was made."

"We have learned that W. R. Stephens, president of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., is very much interested," said the source.

There was a report last fall that Georgia-Pacific had first shot at buying the property. But Robert Pamplin, G-P president, was quoted as saying the company had no plans at that time to buy Hempstead County land.

Triple Birthday Party Is Held

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—They're having a birthday party, birthday party, birthday party today at the Thomas Cozzens' home in suburban Chamblee.

Tommy is 4, Timmy is 3 and Suzanne is 1.

"They say the chances of having three children on one birthday are about one in 18 million," Mrs. Cozzens said, "but I'm glad it has happened to us. I say I had triplets the hard way."

Mrs. Cozzens said, "When you have three children and one birthday day, 'no one ever feels left out when someone else is celebrating a birthday.'"

"My husband likes it, too. There is no chance of getting confused about whose birthday is on what day."

Rain Damage Is Mounting in Europe

LONDON (AP)—Flood damage mounted in Western Europe today as a thaw spread across the Continent.

Greece and Yugoslavia were hardest hit, but several British counties were threatened.

In Greece, 12,000 villagers were evacuated to higher ground from the area north of Salonika. Villages were flooded after the River Axios burst its bank.

Parts of Yugoslavia were in chaos as flood waters swirled through villages and across agricultural land, carrying large ice blocks. General mobilization of the population was ordered around Salica, in Serbia, to help fight the floods.

The thaw melted the snows which have buried Western Europe for weeks.

Heavy rain lashed southwest France, sending avalanches crashing on to roads. One avalanche fell on a snow ploy, killing one man and injuring two.

Strasbourg was the only major French city still freezing. The temperature there was 25 degrees.

Southwest England braced itself for serious floods as river levels rose with the melting snows. Helicopters and amphibious vehicles stood by.

The thaw spread slowly across most of Germany and Austria. Southern winds melted the snows in western Austria and brought a danger of avalanches. But Vienna was still under snow with a temperature averaging 23 degrees.

Italy got steadily warmer except in Trentino Province, in the north, where a new cold wave was reported.

Western Europe's death toll from the cold wave rose to 578.

George Smith, Sr. 94, Dies Friday

George W. Smith, Sr., 94, died Friday afternoon at his home in Hope. He was a lifelong resident of this community. He was a member and deacon of Mt. Olive Baptist Church.

Survivors include: his wife, Alice, four sons, George "Boots" Smith, Jr., of Hope, Edward of Ashdown, Steve of San Pablo, Calif., and Clyde of Richmond, Calif., two daughters, Mrs. Disie Barfield of Oakland, Calif., and Mrs. J. T. Smith of Hope, Arizona. Brother, John of Tucson, Arizona.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at this time and will be announced later by Hicks Funeral Home of Hope.

Congress Sits For A Month; Score: Zero

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 86th Congress is a month old today and still its legislative scorecard is a blank.

What's more, no entries are expected soon.

All next week is an unofficial holiday out of respect to Abraham Lincoln, whom many members will eulogize at patriotic ceremonies back home. The Senate and the House plan to meet only twice during the week—the Constitution requires that—but the "no business" sign will be hanging in both chambers.

From opening day, Jan. 9, through Thursday, the Senate debated the wisdom of curbing filibusters. It finally decided to do nothing, but the decision paved the way for committees to organize and start grinding out legislation.

The House, having no serious filibuster problems, has passed and sent to the Senate two bills. One would allow the Army to lend some tents and other equipment to the Boy Scouts for their annual Jamboree. The other would make some bookkeeping changes in the method of paying funeral expenses of dead veterans.

Two other bills are ready for House consideration. They would increase compensation payments for veterans deaf in both ears or who have lost the use of their vocal cords.

That's the legislative crop for the year to date—not an unusual situation. It takes until the end of February to get committees organized.

President Kennedy has sent Congress eight messages, with more to come. They outline the legislative program the President wants the 86th Congress to enact during the two years of its existence. If it considers only half of the administration's proposals this year, Congress could be in session when the snow falls next winter.

New York Is Jolted by Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cold wave overspread the northeast today, jolting New York City with a windy, cutting 2 below zero.

The Arctic blast, swept southward off Canada's Laurentian uplands on winds of 20 to 30 miles per hour, swung across New England and New York to the Atlantic Ocean beaches.

Extremes included -28 degrees at Mt. Washington, N.H.; -27 at Owls Head in New York's Adirondacks, and -14 at Albany and Binghamton, N.Y.

New York City's reading was the lowest since Feb. 2, 1961, but not a record low for the date, -7 in 1934. The new surge followed two days of relatively mild weather.

Boston's temperature was 1 below. Hartford, Conn., had -7. It was -2 in Newark, N.J. Providence was 5 above. Little easing was expected during the day, with New York City's high expected to be around 10; and a cold, cold night was in prospect.

Upstate New York's subzero wave was severe, but not as uncommon as the coastal cold bite. Temperatures included -22 at Canton, -18 at Oneonta and Massena, -13 at Syracuse, and -4 at Buffalo. Other interior temperatures in the Northeast included -17 at Kingston, N.J., -18 at Burlington, Vt., -11 at Rumford, Maine.

The cold push overflowed much of western Pennsylvania where Dubois had -8 and Pittsburgh -2.

In contrast, the Far Western limits of the northern plains, often the nation's hardest bitten by cold, had some springlike morning marks in the upper 30s and 40s. Rapid City, S.D., reported 42.

Marine Had to Take Up Challenge

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — One of three Marines who completed a 50-mile hike Thursday because of a presidential challenge says it was pride that got him into the affair.

"I've been bragging about how good the Marines are for a long time," said Capt. Gus J. George, commander of the 6th Rifle Company, Reserves, here.

"When this came along, I had to go out and prove it."

Capt. George, Lt. David Jordan and Capt. Phillips Sterling, accompanied by a newspaper reporter, completed the hike in 18½ hours—1½ hours under the time stipulated in a challenge by President Kennedy for Marines to be able to complete a 1968 executive order of former President Theodore Roosevelt.

Two others who started the long walk, S-Sgt. R. S. Wrench and Navy Hospitalman Chief Theodore Barron, were ordered out of the hike at the 25 mile mark, to avoid serious damage to their feet.

Roosevelt stipulated that Marines should not only be able to hike the 50 miles in the required time but finish their last one-half mile at double time and the last 200 yards in a dead run.

This the four men did.

The reporter, Clyde Walbert of the Arkansas Democrat, said he went along because, "if the Marines can do it, I can."

Capt. George termed the hike "a rough test, regardless of a person's physical condition."

The captain, who finished in his stocking feet, said he felt fine, but added, "I won't do any walk-

State Cities Bidding on Industry

By RUTH M. MALONE

Arkansas towns have jumped into spirited bidding for new industry and jobs but some Arkansas towns have other assets as important to the town's economy as any industry they could ever aspire to have come there.

What leaders in any Arkansas town or city would not be vitally interested if they heard they could get an industry with a yearly payroll of $1,500,000 (with practically all of the money coming from outside the city limits) — that hired 200 people and 110 of the group were highly educated to add to the social and cultural life of the town and the remaining 90 with salaries to afford them a good living to add their part to the town's growth and economy — and an additional 1200 young people who would spend three-fourths or more of each year there and spend over one fourth million dollars in town during that time. To make this even more exciting news there is property valued at over $5,500,000 and plans for adding millions more.

This is just part of the value of Ouachita Baptist College to Arkadelphia according to statistics given by Dr. Ralph A. Phelps, President of this college which is one of the seven private colleges in the state.

And Arkadelphia is even doubly fortunate for it has two big college assets within its city limits. Henderson State Teachers College is in Arkadelphia is an integral part of the system of higher education maintained by the state of Arkansas. It brings in 1741 students each year with an increasing benefit to the town as that enrollment is 56.7 greater than four years ago. There are 85 faculty members and with maintenance people on the campus the college population is brought up over 150 more.

As D. D. McBrien, President of Henderson state, "We not only are an asset like a major industry but we make the name of Arkadelphia and Arkansas known many places over the world. Henderson has had more students receive Fulbright Scholarships than all other schools in the state he explained. The Stage Band from this college, under the direction of Wendell Evanson went to the Orient for the Department of Defense on a Special Services tour two years ago. They brought the name of their college, town and state to Japan, Korea, Iwo Jima, Okinawa Luzon, the Philippines and Hawaii.

As Rex Butler, Executive President of the Arkadelphia Chamber of Commerce explained, "Our colleges are major industries to us, plus the leadership we get from both college faculties in all town projects. One faculty member has served as President of the Chamber of Commerce and members have been directors and on committees each year while both college presidents are ex officio members of the Board of Directors. Each year the Chamber of Commerce sponsors a reception to introduce faculty members and local school teachers to the town people.

After talking to business leaders in town I realized even more how very close is the tie-in of town and gown as Dr. Phelps had stated earlier.

"The colleges mean a lot from the business standpoint," Banker Alvin Stone told me. "Just estimate the amount of money students and faculty families spend here in town and one can see the value in dollars." Then he mentioned other advantages which mean even more, "There is a better education level, higher class people and less low type en-ing for the next couple of days. My feet are mad at me for the ordeal I put them through."

Lt. Jordan, who hiked 60 miles in 1961 with a full pack, said if he had been in a combat situation, he thought he could have kept going, "at least until the bullets stopped."

The men carried no gear Thursday, and ate light rations along the way. The group attracted all sightseers along the route, but did not interrupt their hike.

They started at midnight Wednesday from a point near Hot Springs and used U.S. Highway 70 and Interstate Route 30 to their walk.

Dr. Gordon P. Oates, a Navy reserve officer, checked the men at the end of the hike and said they were physically fit.

entertainment places in Arkadelphia than any town I know." He told of early Henderson days when the boys had few cars while now the parking lots are full he said. But all through the years he stressed what the colleges have meant to Arkadelphia. "They give of their time and talent to all of our fairs, parades and local projects. We in turn subscribe to their programs, newspapers and take ads in their yearbooks. We all enjoy the sports events on their campuses. While students don't spend as much on clothes here as they did ten years ago they do buy more gasoline and other things locally."

To show the close knit feeling of town and colleges I was reminded of the two campaigns that were going on at the time in Arkadelphia not too long ago—a building fund for Ouachita Baptist College and a building for the new plant they were trying to get to locate in the town. Many local people bought stock in the plant building then gave their stock to the College. Now this college has the largest majority of the stock in Arkadelphia Foundation Inc. and they rent the building to Oberman Garment Company. Dr. Phelps stressed, "We try to run our part of this transaction with the welfare of our town in mind."

"Actually there is no way to list all the benefits Arkadelphia receives from its two colleges," Nolan Shirey, President of the retail Merchants Association told me. They have a tremendous effect on the economy here and you can really tell during the summer months when the colleges are not enrolled up to full capacity as they are during the regular school terms."

He mentioned some of the leading industries in Arkadelphia—Reynolds Aluminum Company, Tecumseh Board Plant, Hollywood Vase, and Oberman Manufacturing Company and stated, Arkadelphia is a fortunate city in that it has not only its colleges but good industries too." Then he explained that the industries did their part to cooperate and help the colleges while the colleges do their part in return.

Dr. Phelps said, "We have taught several classes for two of the industries to help train employees in Management, Basic English, and Labor Relations. Whatever they want we try to set up and teach in night school as ordinarily we do not have that type of school."

Many part time jobs are made available by local merchants and businessmen in town to enable some of the college students to earn part of their college costs. During Pioneer Days the Art classes helped by making posters and one man told of the art work done by students to make every banquet and reception in town more attractive. Another stated, "I can't think of any project we try to do that there is not some participation from the colleges."

I heard of one incident when a Methodist church needed a choir director and one from Ouachita Baptist College came to the rescue. There was need of a speech therapist and one from the college graciously consented to help a local family. For a town of 3000 there are specialists of every type to help. The new Chamber of Commerce building preliminary plans were made by one of the college staff.

For sports fans there is entertainment right at the door for exciting college ball games and track meets are held during the year.

Practice teachers from the colleges bring new education methods to local schools. College bands are available for town functions. Students in the art classes help build floats for the merchants and church choirs are filled with lovely voices. There are so many places where students and faculty do their part in town it is hard to enumerate them all. There are Boy Scout leaders among faculty members. The ROTC Professor at Henderson is President of a local PTA, while another professor from that college is Chairman of the City Planning Commission.

Plans for Henderson's future building program was explained by Public Relations director Charles Downs. Both colleges have huge building programs and they are constantly expanding to take care of the increased enrollment each year. This brings jobs to many more people and helps in the town's economy in still another way.

Each year both campuses are available for meetings and workshops which bring people from all over the state to this town. Future Homemakers, AEA Institute, and various other adult groups have meetings. Fine Arts programs bring the best in music and lectures for students and town people to enjoy.

Foreign students from many countries come to these colleges and take home words of praise about the friendly little town in Arkansas.

College faculty members from both schools feel Arkansas is home and enjoy participating in local civic work.

It was like a lesson in human relations to hear Dr. McBrien tell of his students — how they go out in the world and bring honor to their state. He showed me a Fine Arts program in a college many miles away and said, "One of my

As Matt took the keys from the holder, she seemed to sense their importance. "They're clues, aren't they?"

"Yes, they tell me who murdered your husband."

"You'll give them to the police?"

"Eventually."

"Tonight, Mr. Bacon. Turn them in tonight."

"You're so anxious to see the man punished?"

Belle Pruitt nodded. "It's not revenge, Mr. Bacon. Nothing can bring Chester back, and he was never close enough to be dead, fully missed. Don't think I'm hard, or that I didn't love him in a mild, remote way. But you can't love a man who lives in a mild, remote way. But I want the murder solved. People are saying I killed Chester. No matter how impossible it may have been for me to commit the crime, they'll always say it unless the real guilty person is caught."

Matt put the keys in his pocket. "As I said, Mrs. Pruitt, this is proof. But it's a sort of deductive proof that would be hard to put convincingly in front of a jury. I have other evidence to support it. But that too is not strong. I have to put other things together to build my case."

She walked with him back to the front part of the house. "I'll not tell anyone what you've told me."

"It doesn't make any difference, Mrs. Pruitt. The killer already knows I'm close. He's trying to kill me."

Rodney McCann, chairman of the board of Magnetic Electric, arrived at the Municipal Airport shortly after 8 o'clock Thursday morning, the seventh day after Dr. Chester Pruitt's disappearance.

About 9:30 a. m. he called on Corbin Bradley in his hotel room. They planned to attend Pruitt's funeral together.

"How are your ulcers, Corbin?" McCann asked.

"Much better, thanks."

"How about a drink?" McCann pointed to the bottle of Scotch on his dresser.

"No thanks. Cigar, Rodney?" Bradley held out one for his boss.

McCann shook his head. He used a water glass to pour himself a small amount of Scotch.

"How's the case coming along? This Washington thing has me worried and unless we turn up something—" He shook his head.

Bradley lit his cigar, his hand trembling slightly. "We're making some progress."

"Progress my eye. It took three days to find a body that should have smelled clear across town. At that rate, you ought to have an arrest by the next Presidential election." He sipped the Scotch.

"Bacon said he'd have the case solved today maybe," said Bradley. He'd better solve it, he added to himself. Bradley wondered what McCann would say when he heard about the 3-D tube.

"Which Bacon? Roger or Francis? McCann laughed at his own joke.

"His first name is Matthew," said Bradley. He hoped that McCann wouldn't crack about Mark, Luke and John, and was thankful when he didn't.

"Well, he did find the body. Maybe it was blind luck or maybe he's the only man in this place who has a sense of smell. How about the widow? A widow is always a good suspect."

"She didn't have the opportunity. She couldn't get by the gate."

"Well, it was only an idea. It wouldn't hurt us if she were in

Army to Send Troops Into Canal Zone

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is planning to form a new group of antiguerrilla experts and base it in the Panama Canal Zone—in position to help Latin American nations cope with any Cuban-fomented uprisings.

Informed sources disclosed this today amid concern in the United States over Soviet military strength in Cuba and the threat of Communist penetration of South and Central America.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has said the Soviets and Cuban do not have the ships to move any of the tanks or other significant military gear across the Caribbean to Latin America.

But U.S. authorities long have been concerned that Fidel Castro might succeed in transplanting his revolution by undercover means and stir up insurgency aimed at overthrowing governments friendly to the United States.

The U.S. Army now maintains four Special Forces groups, each made up of more than 1,200 men trained to a fine edge in the techniques of combatting guerrillas.

For some time, a nucleus of Special Forces troops has been detailed to the Canal Zone. The new group will be a full scale and permanent outfit.

Although it never has been publicized, teams of U.S. antiguerrilla experts are known to have worked in several Latin American countries—always at the request of those countries.

Among them were understood to be Guatemala and Colombia.

Such operations are likely to expand with formation of the fifth unit in the Canal Zone.

The cold war mission of the Special Forces is to train native armed elements, but not to fight themselves. However, in South Viet Nam U.S. Special Forces have found themselves in the midst of battle between government soldiers and Communist guerrillas, and some have been killed.

In a hot war, the Special Forces would be sent behind enemy lines in small teams to organize civilian resistance.

Their officers and men are experts in weapons, demolition, parachuting, communications, medical treatment and other military arts.

Magnetic has been pretty good for her for a few years. She ought to do something useful in return."

Bradley hoped McCann was joking, but he couldn't always tell. The statement was so many things that he'd heard McCann utter in all seriousness.

"The funeral's at 10 o'clock," said Bradley. "We'd better get started."

Matt did not attend the services, but he reached the church right after the procession moved off and joined Moynihan and Clague in front of the door.

The police lieutenant nodded toward Westfall, who was escorting Suzy to his car. "She's wearing a new diamond," said Moynihan. "And Westfall has a shiner. Do you suppose she beat him into submission?"

Clague had his eye on Matt. "I guess nobody ever believes a shiner comes from anything but a punch, but Westfall sure looked like he hit somebody in the fist with his eye. How'd you get that cut on your head, Matt?"

"He wouldn't tell," said Moynihan. "He didn't even mention this teevee gadget, or what Fred Bernard told him."

"You guys know too much," said Matt. He pulled out his billfold, extracted a $5 bill and handed it to Clague.

"The bet?" Clague grinned. "You've got a couple of days yet, Matt. Why don't you keep trying." He took the bill anyhow.

"I don't have to try any more," said Matt.

DOROTHY DIX

He's A Cad and Admits It

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I married a girl pick-on me as much as he does for her money and she married me because nobody else would have her, she's so homely. A bad start, I agree. That was five years ago. We have a little boy now and moved here, determined to make a go of it for our son's sake.

I guess we're both misfits for until we came to this town there was not a single person we could call a friend. Shortly after we arrived we met a wonderful couple with whom we could have good, clean fun. They were the first real friends we ever had. The wife was particularly nice; pretty, amiable and a fine homemaker. One night, after she had prepared an especially good dinner, I gave her a playful little "I get to kiss the cook" kiss in the kitchen. She kissed me back.

As time passed I realized I had fallen deeply in love with this woman. Our kisses became demanding and soul-stirring. It was reaching the point where I felt I could not live without her.

One evening at her house, when my wife and her husband were in the living room and we in the kitchen doing the dishes, I asked her to marry me if and when I could get a divorce. She stared at me with positive horror in her eyes—and dropped me like a poisonous snake.

From that time on she refused to have anything to do with me. This is awkward for we often meet at civic groups of which we both are committee members. The very sight of her sends me into a tizzy.

I make a fool of myself at these meetings by staring moon-eyed at her and getting emotionally upset when around her. My mad proposal in the kitchen spoiled a beautiful friendship and, since my wife suspects the reason, is wrecking our marriage which is going from bad to worse.

I'm living in a hell on earth. Should I chalk this fiasco up to experience and continue living with my wife in the hope that eventually we may learn to love one another? Or should I be true to myself and walk out? I admit I'm a cad but maybe there is something in me worth salvaging. —A Very Confused Reader

Dear Very: You have created your own problem by fancying yourself in love with someone who obviously does not love you. Slender kisses, however passionate, don't mean you two are soulmates. Put that episode behind you.

Your initial mistake was in marrying a woman whom you did not love. But you made a bargain and, if you have a shred of honor, should live up to it.

The very fact that you admit your failings is a healthy sign. Take a walk in the woods or a bus ride alone and think this problem through. Treat it as if you were an outsider looking in. Judge it from a third person's viewpoint. Let your decision be governed by what is best for all.

As you say, there is your son to consider. A mutual love for him could very well unite you and your wife.

For his sake discard the childish role in which you have cast yourself and be the father of whom he can be proud. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "The Ideal Husband."

Dear Helen: My father's a hard worker but when he drinks our home is Purgatory. He doesn't pick-on me as much as he does my mother and brother. Tonight he worked till seven o'clock and when he got home, Mom fixed his supper. After he ate, Pop started yelling at my brother who is very hot tempered, then took it out on Mom. He yelled and yelled.

My brother ran out the door crying. "I'm leaving for good this time." Mom got sick (she has ulcers) and I started crying.

That's a sample of what goes on here. It looks as if this 17-year-old marriage was on the rocks. What can my brother and I do to save it? He is 13, I am 14. We love our parents. —Need Help

Dear Need: Calm down. Crying only makes matters worse. Your father's and mother's nerves are on edge because of overwork. You and your brother can ease the tension by lending a helping hand around the house.

Put yourself in the mood to accept responsibility. Begin by organizing the housework for your mother, making a list of the tasks which you and your brother can do. Be an anchor for the family. One calm person can pull the others back to normalcy. Patience, kindness and love, plus the will to work are essential.

Your letter proves you already possess kindness and love. The others can be acquired. Talk to your school counselor about a course in home economics. Also send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, care of this newspaper for my leaflet, "Better Home Management."

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen: Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Thinks Coup in Iraq Anti-Red

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said today the new revolutionary command which has seized power in Iraq appears to be "anti-Communist."

A military coup in Iraq toppled the government of Premier Abdul Karim Kassam today and a new government was proclaimed. The 400 U.S. citizens in Iraq apparently escaped injury.

"The first official act of the new revolutionary command," the department reported, "was to purge known Communists from the officer corps along with Kassam's intimates and members of the former Council of State."

Giving this assessment of the situation, press officer Lincoln White said the revolt probably was set off by Kassam's action last week in retiring 58 nationalist officers and replacing many of them with pro-Communists.

Officials Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin has called on Secretary of State Dean Rusk to express Russian concern over the treaty of cooperation between Germany and France.

The meeting Thursday, held on Dobrynin's initiative, did not touch on Cuba and only lightly brushed the topic of disarmament.

"We discussed recent developments in the international field and relations between our two countries," the Russian told reporters.

Sunday - Monday at Saenger

"BOYS' NIGHT OUT" stars Kim Novak, James Garner and Tony Randall with Janet Blair, Patti Page and Howard Duff with guest stars Zsa Zsa Gabor, William Bendix, Fred Clark, Jim Bacus and Larry Keating.

Coming Soon to Saenger

Doris Day, Stephen Boyd, Jimmy Durante and Martha Raye are the dazzling stars of "Billy Rose's Jumbo," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular musical with a circus background, in which all four sing, dance and appear in thrilling saucer acts, including equestrian feats and highwire performances. Based on the Broadway stage success, the big Paramount and color attraction features seven Rodgers and Hart song hits and many of the world's most famous circus acts. The Joe Pasternak Production was directed by Charles Walters.

Fatalities Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seven persons lost their lives in traffic accidents on Arkansas highways Wednesday.

Six of the victims died in head-on collisions. The seventh was Garrie Dodd Freeman, a 20-month-old boy who darted into the path of a car driven by George M. Dickens, 44, of Little Rock, on state Highway 130 about 1 1/2 miles southeast of North Little Rock.

The child had been visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Mamie Freeman, 54, Mrs. Freeman was also hit by Dickens' car when she attempted to save the child. She was taken to a Little Rock hospital in serious condition.

Three persons died in a head-on collision on State Highway 11 about four miles south of Stuttgart.

They were Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cox, in their late 60s, and Mrs. Charley Atkins, about 70.

A similar wreck at Lonoke Wednesday night took the lives of Luther M. Duncan, 56, of Jacksonville and Roland Peaks of Carlisle. Duncan's wife was injured in the accident. Peaks was reported alone.

Mrs. Ross Ford, 47, of Paragould, was killed in a crash two miles west of Paragould. Her car collided with a truck driven by Crowley Clark of Stanford, police said. Stanford was hospitalized.

Hope Cagers Win 3 Games Friday Night

By CARTER HARDAGE

Friday the Hope Bobcats took a rest from their grueling pace and took an easy Conference victory at the expense of Smackover by a score of 60-42. The Junior Boys defeated Smackover 30-19. Also, at Hope, the Lady Cats ousted Texarkana 49-40.

Over at Smackover, prospects for a victory by the Bobkittens weren't exactly a sure thing, as Hope took a 4-3 lead for the First Quarter. Going rather slowly, the game ended up at 8 all by the Half. Hope was actually behind at 16-15 after the Third Quarter, but, amidst a shower of fouls, sped ahead and led by a 30-19 margin at the end of the game. This leaves the Bobkittens with a 5-1 Conference record and a tie for District honors.

Ramsey was high with 11 points. Ingram had 10, Watkins 6, May 2, and McGill 1.

In their game Bobcats had little trouble taking a quick lead and dominating play from then on. Hope was popping the sack and roared into a 18-6 advantage by the Quarter and into an even bigger 39-20 lead for Halftime. The Cats were ahead 50-26 at the Third Quarter of play, and finally Hope scored 60, to 42 for the Bucks. This put Hope in a 4-2 Conference record, losing only to League-leading Malvern.

Dan Jones was top man for the Cats with 12 points. David Porterfield was a close second with 11. Murphy had 10, Allen 8, McLarty 7, Burnett 6, Mayfield 3, Purdie 2, and Foster 1.

Hope's Lady Cats defeated Texarkana 49-40 at Jones' Field House. Hope skipped into a 14-9 lead at the Quarter, but Texarkana edged up to 21-20. The Lady Cats again took a big lead at 40-30 and the final buzzer found Hope ahead 49-40. Annette Hatfield was high for Hope with 22 points. Janice Lloyd had 19, and Shirley Smith 8.

Saturday night, Camden travels to Hope for Junior and Senior Boys' games. So far, Camden has a 3-4 Conference record, against Hope's 4-2. The Panther's have two men among the top dozen in the District, Jordan with a total of 95 points, and Beaver with 63. In their last meet, at Camden, Hope won 69-53. Fans are urged to see both exciting games, the first at 7:00.

NO MALICE

No American who ever lived had a greater grasp of the true meaning of Freedom than Abe Lincoln, the kindly and rugged-featured man who described this nation as having been "conceived in liberty," and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

But Abraham Lincoln knew that Liberty could not be won and maintained by men alone. He acknowledged Divine power. The Great Emancipator made that clear in all his classic utterances. The closing lines of the Gettysburg Address is our best example: "... that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom ... and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth." ... that is Americanism.

So They May See == St. John 1:1-17 == So They May Hear

IN THE BEGINNING was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.
2. The same was in the beginning with God.
3. All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made.
4. In him was life; and the life was the light of men.
5. And the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not.
6. There was a man sent from God, whose name was John.
7. The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through him might believe.
8. He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light.
9. That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.

HE WAS IN THE WORLD, and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not.
11. He came unto his own, and his own received him not.
12. But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name:
13. Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.
14. And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth.
15. John bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, He that cometh after me is preferred before me: for he was before me.
16. And of his fulness have all we received, and grace for grace.
17. For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came from Jesus Christ.
